BIG MEETING LAST NIGHT

Executive Committee Makes Full and Final Report—Matters of Vital Concern—Splendid Showing After Splendid Work—One More Conference.

The executive committee of the Astoria Annual Regatta, 1905 held an important session last evening, in the council chamber of the city hall, at 7:30 o'clock. There were present, President Herman Wise, Secretary Fred J. Johnson and Committeeman J. W. Suprenant, Albert Dunbar, C. R. Morse, W. D. Staples, Thomas Riery, Aug. Nelson and J. H. Seymour. The meeting was called to receive and consider the full and final reports of all officers and sub-committees and to pass upon and determine all matters pending settlement of whatever kind.

Secretary Johnson submitted the following list of moneys received from all sources:

From subscriptions	$4,532.56
From Entries	82.00
From Regatta Ball	125.50
From Concessions	439.58
From Country Dance	501.25
Returned from Farmers' Fair Committee	82.28
Returned from Committee on Small Sports	21.85

Total Receipts $5,784.99

To this sum must be added an amount of $30.00 in the hands of one of the committeemen who will turn it over in due course after certain correspondence is had, thus increasing the cash amount to a total of $5,814.99.

He also submitted a detail list of all expense, including prizes awarded and every phase of obligation incurred by the Regatta, in the sum of $5,067.21.

This latter including several small, unpaid accounts that could not be covered sooner.

These totals, which were in all things creating them, duly approved by the executive committee, and show that a balance remains in the hands of the Regatta committee of $747.78.

From this balance however it was decided by the committee last night to return to the Fourth of July committee the unexpended balance of $167.06, turned over by the July committee to the Regatta officers, for use in the latter event and the net cash balance remaining with the Regatta Committee will be $480.72.

But to this final sum must be added the very valuable assets in the hands of the Regatta committee such as the grand stand lumber ready morticed for reconstruction next year, tubs, chains, rope, anchors, poles, etc., of the certain value of $500, which brings the committee back to the public, its work thoroughly well done, paid for and accounted with an available balance of $980.72; a showing that is remarkable and entirely commendable considering the enormous detail handled, and the extraordinary success of the celebration.

The report of the sub-committee on aquatics, showing the sum of $300, received from the executive committee and a full accounting for expenses and prizes, in the sum of $278.15, giving a balance, as reported and turned in, of $21.85 was read and approved.

The sub-committee on fish-boat races reported the receipt of $772.50 and a disbursement in expense and awards of the same amount. Their stake-boat expense was covered from the general fund.

The report of the sub-committee on Farmer's Fair was read and duly approved, including the balance of $82.28 returned to the main committee.

In the matter of the cat-boat races, the awards in which were withheld for sufficient reason, Secretary Johnson was directed to write to the three contestants and inform them that unless they accepted, as final, the ruling made by Admiral's staff, namely, that each of the three be paid $10.00 of the prize money up for the contest, $30.00, the whole sum would be turned back into the general treasury of the Regatta committee. The probability of this sum so reverting to the treasury, is considered in totals reported by the executive committee.

All the reports of the sub-committees were ordered filed with the auditing committee for final confirmation.

In the matter of the minor prizes, set up by some friendly firms in Portland it was ascertained that beyond what were competed for, won and awarded, principally fancy groceries, there were a few left on hand which were not striven for, the aggregate value of which the executive committee has appraised at $29; and these will be sold to the best advantage and the money put in the treasury. This item is also included in the final totals herein noted.

It developed in the course of last night's meeting that this Regatta committee had achieved a collection of its cash subscriptions, within $18.00 of the aggregate amount subscribed, which is another extraordinary achievement, as such a percentage of collections to the subscriptions is very rare. The amount subscribed to the Regatta fund was $4550.56 and the amount collected and reported was $4532.56.

The executive committee reports among its assets the following articles, all of which will shortly be returned to the several donors as they were not competed for, the return being accompanied by the grateful thanks of the committee: A silver cup, by Messrs. Old, Wortman & King, of Portland; A $3.00 gold piece of date 1855, donated by Mr. Dennis Brown; a brass steering wheel, given by the Seow Bay Foundry; and a Columbia graphophone, a prize sent in by Mr. A. R. Cyrus.

It was ordered by the executive committee, last evening, that the auditing committee proceed to compile, print, and mail to each and every subscriber to the Regatta fund of 1905, a detailed report of the receipts and disbursements made in behalf of that event, and this will be done forthwith.

The meeting was perfectly harmonious, the several committeemen being in close touch with all the details presented, thus proving the careful and assiduous oversight each had given to the big scheme of entertainment and thus securing prompt and unanimous action in the disposal of these last, important matters.

The developments made last night are indicative of the most painstaking and faithful stewardship and the public of Astoria has nothing left to do, but thank the men who have sacrificed their time and personal interests in managing one of the best Regatta celebrations ever compassed at this port. And the appreciation of the Morning Astorian, for this splendid public service, is on a par with that of any citizen of Astoria, who realizes and acknowledges the actual benefits conferred.

VISITING PATRIARCH

Hon. John Minto, of Salem, Mingling With Old Friends in Astoria.

For several days past Hon. John Minto, of Salem, has been visiting life-long friends in this city and county, having come down, primarily, to attend the funeral of Hon. Augustus C. Wirt, lately deceased. Having paid the last tribute of respect and affection to his dead companion of long ago, Mr. Minto has been moving about among the homes of other pioneer people who have rejoiced in his coming.

He was driver of the lead-mule team, and captain of the outfit, with which Mr. Wirt and his young family crossed the continent in 1844, and with Mr. Wirt, he, and 16 others, founded their first homes in this state, upon the plains of Clatsop, and there Mr. Minto married, and neighbored with him for years. But time and death and circumstance have wrought many sad changes in that little community, and from the view-point of his 83 years, this fine old citizen of Oregon, finds much to sadden him, but the same vim and vigor that has made him so useful to every community in which he has lived in Oregon, still possesses him, and while deploring the things that cannot be helped, he looks eagerly to the future for more of life's work to do, and is cheerful and energetic as ever.

No reliable history of this state will ever be written that does not concede a goodly portion of its space and matter to the helpful things done for Oregon by John Minto.

J. W. HARRISON DEAD.

A letter received in this city, yesterday, announces the death of J. W. Harrison, formerly of this city, and who married Miss Bessie Barker, the well-known school teacher, here. He was one of the victims of the railway wreck on the Oregon Short Line between Weiser and Eaton, Idaho, on Saturday last, being killed outright, while doing duty as mail clerk on the north bound train. There are many here who will deeply regret Mr. Harrison's violent and untimely death.

HAVE MODEL SCHOOL

What County Superintendent Found in District No. 9.

REPORT PAR EXCELLANCE

Facts Worth Reading and Remembering—Work of Careful Teacher—Example set by Little Rural School for Greater Ones to Follow.

The following report handed in to the Morning Astorian, yesterday, by one deeply interested in school work in this city and county, reads like a plain, simple story of an every-day matter, but to the observant reader who fathoms the real, concrete essence of the tale, it develops a fact of prime value; one to be boasted of, to be followed up and cherished and made the most of, for it is the story of a model school; not a school of great dimensions, numerous scholars and a staff of carefully chosen and highly equipped teachers, but the record of one small, country school, conducted by a conscientious and capable young teacher along lines that would adorn the management of the most pretentious public school in Oregon, and as such a model school, both in management and results the Astorian is glad to herald it. Following is the report:

One bright morning last week, the enterprising county school superintendent, Miss Emma C. Warren, went to visit school district No. 9, at Albert. A trip on the cars, a voyage in an open boat to a logging camp, and a half mile tramp on planks laid over the railroad track, brought her in sight of the pretty little school house.

Patriotism was indicated by the stars and stripes waving merrily in the breeze; love of beauty by the large bed of flaming Salvias and brilliant geraniums inside the gate, and cleanliness, by the water, soap and towels in the vestibule. Neatness and studiousness prevailed in the well-ordered and tastefully decorated school room.

The occasion was the graduation of an eighth grade pupil, and all the neighborhood came out to do honor to the first event of the kind in this rural district. There were appropriate exercises; recitations, patriotic songs, a fine essay by the graduate, Miss Ida Empo; then an earnest and inspiring speech by the county superintendent; the conferring of the diploma, and the sweet girl graduate, her arms full of flowers, was sent forth to battle with life and its duties.

The superintendent is glad to report this as a model school, which speaks volumes in praise of its industrious, conscientious, and painstaking teacher, Miss Virginia Keene. It is to her careful and thoughtful planning that all the beauties and improvements in house and yard are due, and her intellectual and moral influence will outlast this generation, for what you do for a child goes on forever.

Though homes are scattered, and many children must cross the water to reach school, and all are the children of foreigners, the teacher reports, "Not one case of tardiness in three years."

"Let us have more records like this in Clatsop county."

WARRENTON MILL SOLD.

Astoria National Bank Secures it for the Sum of $25,000.

The receivers sale of the Warrenton Lumber company's mill was held yesterday afternoon and the property was sold to the Astoria National bank, the highest bidder of the company, for $25,000.

The affairs of the company appear to be badly complicated. Sometime ago suits were filed by the Astoria National bank and John Hahn, to foreclose a mortgage, resulting in the bank being given a judgment for $28,801.65, while Mr. Hahn secured a judgment for $5163, and George Warren was appointed as receiver. Besides this mortgage, there is also a second mortgage on the property in the sum of $6235 given to secure C. F. Lester and other stockholders for the amounts guaranteed by them on the original note, given the Astoria National bank. In addition to the above there are unsecured claims against the company amounting to $25,000. The holders of these unsecured claims have filed petitions in the United States court asking that the company be declared a bankrupt. These petitions are awaiting the appointment of a new federal judge before they will be passed upon. Considering the fact that the unsecured claims against the company amount to $60,000 the amount for which the mill was sold is considered somewhat small.
